Notes on the Hyoutei Internet searching site parody:

 Hanako-san:

Hanako-san is supposed to be a girl ghost that haunts in the 4th toilet stall of the girl's bathroom in every elementary school. It is said that she committed suicide due to bullying, but she is known to be there just for no reason...

* Satoru-kun

This story reminds me of the Bloody Mary story. Satoru-kun is said to be all-knowing and you can summon him by making a call to your cellphone with a public phone. You are to say "Satoru, Satoru, please come here. Satoru, Satoru, please show yourself. Satoru, Satoru, please answer me if you're there..." and hang up. Within 24 hours he will call you back to your turned turned-off cell phone. He will call many times until he's right behind you and you must ask your question immediately, not looking at him. If you do either wrong, he'll drag you to the underworld.

 Unabow

This is a pastry kind of snack that comes in many flavors ranging from chocolate to takoyaki (squid dumpling flavored). This renaissance can be found in most of the super market around Japan; smallest of them carrying only a few flavors on sale.
